Jim,

Do you have a specific contact for the SOE? I'll be happy to follow up with them since Bethany is knee deep in meetings this week.

My only hesitation about inviting Joel or Lindsey is that we don't invite other academic advisors. Many of their students come to me because of complications their advisors have created. Bethany, what do you think?

Subject: Title IX Sexual Assault Information

I just met with the advisors over in the School of Education to talk about counseling services. As the conversation went, they had several question regarding students who have been sexually assaulted. They do not have any information about reporting requirements and their responsibilities as university personnel. I'm letting the two of you know so that someone can provide them with the correct information they need.

Also, I wonder if someone from that group shouldn't be on the Students of Concern Team. They advise students that may not have contact with anyone else. This is Joel Porter and Lindsey Freed's area.
